THE CRISIS IN WALL-STREET.

The New York correspondent of the "Daily Telegraph" sends the following excellent analysis of the present financial position in America, which will be of much interest to our readers:—

Infidential Wall-street interests ask me to present, through the medium of "The Daily Telegraph," a temperate, conservative, and accurate summary of the existing financial conditions, stripped of the glamour of excitement, so that London and Europe may understand the present situation in the United States and the future outlook.

Although I am cognizant of the plans of the leading financiers, and am fully in accord with those who have done, and are doing, splendid work under the direct personal leadership of Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan to rehabilitate American finance, I hesitate to cable more than the surface facts, because the underlying basis or present labours may be somewhat shifted later by reason of exigencies arising from daily or weekly developments. The following statements may be accepted, however, as accurate as a reliable authority may make them known.

The rehabilitation of Wall-street and the financial community is the work of months, not days, and it is only by careful conservation of the available reserve elements of strength that order may come from the present chaos. This may be accepted as a fact, regardless of its apparent inconsistency with established truths concerning the known prosperity of the country, the large crops waiting for the market, and the tremendous reserves, aggregating hundreds of millions, held or hoarded by frightened people who will continue this plan until confidence is restored, and stability re-established beyond peradventure.

Aid in restoring normal conditions is coming from two main sources, each separate but working along correlated lines. One is the remedies which Wall-street may put into effect without Government aid or intervention, and the other is Federal legislation to cure currency evils through Congressional enactment.

Wall-street has five remedies at hand, and it should prove reassuring to London to know that three of the five, under the direction of Mr. Morgan and his associates, are already being invoked. These remedies are:

1. The purifying of the banking and Trust company directorates through the enforced resignations of undesirable men who have slipped into the boards through laxity or for purposes of "high finance" not open to honest scrutiny.

2. Compel all Trust companies to place themselves under the Clearing House rules, maintain the reserves required by the association, and be subject to all the scrutiny of the Federal Banking inspection.

3. Regulate call money, by taking it from the floor of the Stock Exchange and providing an adequate authority to fix a maximum rate for call funds, either semi-weekly, weekly, or fortnightly, thus abolishing the present abuse whereby a few powerful banks remorselessly squeeze needy borrowers, enriching themselves and causing fear and unrest among the brokers whose business is carried on wholly on a credit basis.

4. Abate the excessive interest now paid by the Trust companies and banks as inducements to secure deposits, causing these institutions to take great risks in order to keep their funds at work.

Forbid the payment of large interest by the New York banks to the interior banks to secure deposits of their spare cash in New York, which induces every year an undue and dangerous concentration of capital here, and its sudden withdrawal and consequent financial disturbance when the crop-moving time arrives.

Government aids to the restoration of normal conditions and national sanity, as already invoked, have come through the energetic and wise efforts of the Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Cortelyou, in putting the Treasury funds in the national depositories, and through the belated awakening of President Roosevelt to the fact that a panic such as has been shaking the United States from the Atlantic to the Pacific calls for action instead of words and deliberation over how to solve economic problems rather than how to kill bears.

I am gratified to be able to state that much needed aid may be expected from the President henceforth. Without abandoning any of his iterated policies, he will so change his Message to Congress that the reforms in the currency system needed to aid the rejuvenation of United States credit may be placed in front of other necessary, but not so pressing, measures. The President will temporarily forgo his efforts to secure wholesale prosecutions of Trust offenders, and will ask the Congress to give financial relief through credit currency measures, either allowing the 6,000 and more national banks additionally to utilise credits issued on conceded sound assets or give relief through cashiers' cheques, Clearing House certificates, and due bills of business houses and manufacturers for ninety or 120 days.

London should bear in mind that every commercial city in this country is now issuing Clearing House certificates, and demanding time on savings bank withdrawals. Nearly $1,500,000,000 funds which should be in active circulation are tied up. Business commitments of any character are held up, and the reductions and disarrangements due to such a sudden cessation of cash payments will not be overcome under three or four months.

Another point which Wall-street bankers want to present for London's consideration is that gold must continue to come from your side until the most pressing demands are satisfied, and that any artificial barriers erected will be offset by currency premiums here. In the early autumn London declined to discount heavily American bills, thereby temporarily saving to itself from $200,000,000 to $300,000,000 which should have been placed to New York's credit, but with cotton, copper, grain, flour, and stock certificates now going from New York to London in growing volume pay-day is near.

Wall-street bankers appreciate that London has come to their aid, and I am authorised to say that when the turn in the tide is safely at hand New York will reciprocate.

The best feature of to-day's holiday is the complete cessation of banking and Stock Exchange business, which affords time for the crystallisation of rejuvenation measures.

London will appreciate how far-reaching are Wall-street's cleaning-up measures when it gets the final score on the number of men long prominent financially and socially who have been or are to be driven from Wall-Street and financial circles through their expulsion as directors of banks and Trust companies. New developments in this matter mean no new trouble; merely the cleansing of old wounds.

London to Bombay in Fifteen Days.

In connection with the record passage of the Ellerman City liner the "City of London" it is noteworthy that the passengers who joined the vessel at Marseilles did not require to leave London until the morning of October 17th. They were therefore landed at Bombay in the remarkably short time of 15 days from the date they left London. The vessel left Liverpool on October 12th, reaching Bombay on Friday morning last. Therefore, from port to port she made the passage in about 19½ days.

LOTS TURCS.

Although not an Egyptian concern, one of the favourite securities of the small investor in Egypt is, along with the Crédit Foncier bonds, the Lots Turcs (bonds of the Imperial Ottoman Railway), which are largely dealt in. The Lots Turcs have been issued at various periods as railway bonds at the price of 400f. each. Since 1875 they have yielded no interest, and must be considered as simply lottery bonds. They entitle the holder to participate up to the year 1974 in six drawings annually, and are redeemable at prices ranging between 600,000f. and 240f. Until 1910 there will be annually three gros lots (or first prizes) of 600,000f. and three of 300,000f. After 1910 the gros lots will be reduced to 400,000f. and 200,000f. Bonds which are redeemed at par, i.e., 400f., only receive 60 per cent. of this sum, viz., 240f. The security is guaranteed by means of special sources of revenue set aside for the purpose and collected by the Ottoman Public Debt Commission, a kind of international board, the working of which has nothing in common with Oriental practices. These revenues are more than sufficient for their purpose, and each year a portion of the surplus is even used for supplementary amortisations through repurchase. This explains the firmness and the rise in the price of these bonds. Out of a total of 1,980,000 Lots Turcs issued, 363,631 have been amortised, 125,850 by means of drawings and 237,781 by repurchase, leaving to be amortised 1,616,369 lots. The increase of 3 per cent. in the Ottoman Customs dues, which recently came into force, will bring about an increase in the revenues of £1,000,000. As the portion set aside for the redemption of the bonds is 10 per cent., the sum devoted to repurchases might be increased by about £100,000 annually, which would allow in future of the annual repurchase of about 15,000 bonds more. If we add the annual amortisation of 5,400 bonds, as well as the 21,000 redeemed out of the existing surplus revenues, the number of bonds withdrawn from circulation annually will be about 42,000. They are quoted in Egypt at 120f., at Paris 172f., at Berlin 178f., and at Vienna 193f.

THE RECENT PALESTINE EXHIBITION

The exhibition under the above title which was held at the Royal Agricultural Hall, Islington, last summer was such a success that, after payment of all expenses, the London Society for the Promotion of Christianity among the Jews netted a sum of £12,000. Proportionately successful exhibitions have been held in the provinces. More than 350,000 visited the London Exhibition, which was organised by the Rev. W. Schor.

SALE OF SALT.

EGYPTIAN MARKETS CO. LTD.

A correspondent writes from Cairo:—

English and Egyptian shareholders alike must be gratified at finding that the present financial crisis has in no wise affected their holdings in the above company and few concerns in Egypt are on a sounder basis, for the sites of the various markets throughout the country are the property of the company and the difference between the purchase price and their present value must be considerable. Moreover, owing to the strong measures adopted by the Government, there is little likelihood of the cattle plague reassuming the dimensions which at one time seriously hampered the company's operations.

An agreement has recently been effected between the Markets Company on the one hand and the Egyptian Salt and Soda Company and the Port Said Salt Association Limited on the other, by which the Markets Company acquires the sole agency for the sale of salt throughout Egypt on a commission basis of 11 per cent.

After a protracted courtship, during which they were alternately coquettish and demure, the Egyptian Salt and Soda Company and the Port Said Salt Association have come together and the offspring of their happy union is the United Egyptian Salt Company, the Markets Company acting the part of sage-femme, at the accouchement. The infant is but a puling one and, as such, will require careful nursing to enable it to successfully engage in the battle of life which, in Egypt, is an increasingly strenuous one. Some years ago one of its parents largely severed the ties which bound it to its mother country and therefore, in default, the infant must be reared by alien hands. The usual diet of an infant is milk and the source of supply is of a sufficient importance. In England, of late years, owing to increased infant mortality there has been a considerable agitation in the press and elsewhere for the establishment of Government or Municipal milk depots, in order that the supply may be of guaranteed strength and purity, but nothing, to our knowledge, has been settled as yet, nor does it appear likely that the Egyptian Government will set the example at the instance of this particular family.

I gathered from an article on the Egyptian Markets Company, which appeared in your columns some weeks ago, that the Company hopes shortly to have the selling of 120,000 tons of salt annually. Reckoning the price at L.E. 2 per ton, the value of the salt sold in a year would be L.E. 240,000. The Commission accruing to the Markets Company therefrom at 11 per cent. would amount to L.E. 26,400,—a very considerable sum! Against this amount must be reckoned the increased expenditure incurred by the Markets Company in taking over the leases of the various shounahs all over the country (hitherto rented by the Salt and Soda Company) as well as the salaries of the provincial staff of that Company. In the course of time the Markets will doubtless be able to effect considerable economies in both these departments which should still leave a large margin of profit on the L.E. 26,400.

How the estimated future sales of salt were arrived at is, however, not so clear for, if my information is correct, the Salt and Soda Company, even when rejoicing in the possession of a Salt monopoly protected by a large force of Coastguards, never, in its most palmy days, succeeded in selling more than some 80,000 tons, or half the estimate given in your article. To day the United Egyptian Salt Company possess no such monopoly and the salines, which are to be met with throughout the length and breadth of Egypt, remain unprotected, and any protection the Company may consider necessary in the future must be maintained at its own expense. There is also the question of the Damietta salines of which the natives claim the ownership. These salines are being very actively exploited and are capable of producing annually some 25,000 to 30,000 tons of salt which is sent up river by boats at a comparatively small cost. All attempts to control this output have hitherto been unsuccessful as the native proprietors are increasingly alive to the value of their property. The Bedouins of Upper Egypt have also recommenced bringing in rock salt from the hills for which they find a ready market, and all these obstacles have to be reckoned with.

The Markets Company has also undertaken the sale of gunpowder, soap, and oil, all articles hitherto dealt with through the Distribution Depots of the Salt and Soda Company. With regard to gunpowder they will enjoy a monopoly of the sale of this article subject to the regulations of the Ministry of the Interior as regards storage and transit for which the Salt and Soda Company will, presumably, be held responsible. As regards soap and oil, if it is the intention of the Markets Company to sell these articles for cash only, the competition of merchants who allow credit will have to be faced and I am informed that the commission allowed by the Salt and Soda Company to the Market Company on such sales is little, if any, more than that formerly granted to its own native agents in order to encourage increased sales. Furthermore the agency granted to the Markets for soap and oil is not a sole agency as in the case of Salt.

The Egyptian Markets Company has also taken up the sale of Nitrates. With its various depôts throughout the country the company has special facilities for handling this product and promptly meeting the demands of cultivators. The chief complaint of the cultivators who have experimented with this fertiliser in the past, has been the delay in delivery and this should now be remedied.

It must be very evident to readers of this article that the interests of the Markets Company and those of the United Egyptian Salt Company are closely allied at any rate as regards the sale of Salt, and, if the latter concern is able to successfully meet the competition of the Damietta salines, the future should be promising for both. If success does not crown its efforts in that direction the infant (to revert to my parable) may require the services of a physician.

DANGERS IN CAIRO.

P.W.D. SHORTCOMINGS.

Cairo, Thursday.

Our Cairo Correspondent writes:—
Yet another house has fallen in Cairo, but no one was killed, so one must presume that things still continue in the same old way, and falling houses will become as common an occurrence in this country as falling rain is in other. What would be the expense of employing inspectors to examine the state of the older dwelling houses in Cairo, and is it not necessary that such an inspection should be made, no matter what the cost?

We have not had much rain yet, but wait, wait until a heavy fall such as we not infrequently get in Cairo shall open up the dust filled cracks in the walls and foundations of these houses, wait until they come tumbling down in round numbers and then send inspectors to enquire into the disastrous state of affairs, wait until the unfortunate inhabitants are caught napping and real damage is done, and then open subscriptions for the victims of an avoidable disaster.

The houses are, for the most part actually unsafe; we know it, every one knows it, but no step is taken to prevent the possible loss of life resulting from the entombment of the inhabitants of such quarters.

And speaking of death traps reminds one of the streets and pavements of our capital to-day, which are in a more disgraceful state at this moment than one can remember for years, which is saying a good deal. There is no management visible in the ordering of the new building operations, stones and sand and filth are thrown up onto the pavements regardless of the need of pedestrians, excavations are made for new houses in the pavements of our principle streets and left gaping without a light or barrier to warn the foot passenger of the danger he is running through leaving the muddy street below, and this morning in the Sharia Kasr el Nil workmen were pitching down bricks and stone far into the street from their vantage point of a house which is being either demolished or repaired. The pavement was for a wonder protected with a barrier, but it was absolutely unsafe to walk on that side of the street near to the house at all.

Loose stones and boulders which have been left on the pavements opposite recent buildings after the workmen have departed from the scene lie for weeks obstructing the footway. In fact the affairs are managed, if one can call it management at all, in such a manner as to leave no room for doubt that it is in the hands of thoroughly incompetent men, and the sooner they leave their posts, and are replaced by men who know their business, the better will every one be pleased.

There is one spot though where ample warning is given to the public that danger exists, we will be just at all costs, and that is at the Boulac corner of the Sharia Madebegh, where there is an orderly stack of ballast some feet long, opposite a lamp post, and at each end of this stack are placed red lamps warning the stranger that the pavement is not clear. We imagine too that there is a watchman in charge to see that no one comes to grief (or steals the ballast).

Gaping excavations in the middle of the pavement are evidently beneath the notice of the brilliant minds of those whose business it is to see to these matters, but a stack of stone in an unfrequented street necessitates two danger signals.

For gross carelessness, or incompetence, call it what you will, the department which is supposed to look after our public streets is not to be beaten, there is no system save that of confusion and danger and apparently no desire to enforce better regulations.

For the benefit of your readers I will shortly send you a list of the principle places in central Cairo where it is unsafe to walk on the pavements.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for the opinions expressed by our correspondents, but we wish, in a spirit of fair play to all, to permit—within certain necessary limits—free discussion.

A PLEASING CONTRAST.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "EGYPTIAN GAZETTE."

Sir,—A short time since you were so good as to publish a letter from me referring to two books on Egypt written by Mr. W. S. Blunt; the reference was not a pleasant one, but since then I have read another book on Egypt by the late Hadji Brown, of which I had seen some extracts in your columns. This book is such a pleasing contrast to the other two, that I should be glad to say a few words about it to your readers.

As a stranger, living in a country of which I have for many years enjoyed the hospitality, I like to read these new books about it, good, bad, indifferent—alas how few of the former,—and I look with some regret at the increasing length of book shelf which they require; for it must be admitted that many of those who feel themselves called upon to write about Egypt, know no more about the workings of the minds of its people, than the fisher in the sea knows about the passengers on board the steamers which cross it. But here we have a book, into which the careful reader need not go far, before he becomes convinced that its author not only has a very intimate knowledge of his subject, but that he can express his ideas in an unusually vivid and interesting way.

Many years ago I was laid up with fever in Syria, when a friendly French neighbour sent me for my amusement ten quarto volumes of the monumental work in which the French Government records of Napoleon's expedition to Egypt and Syria about 1798. I cannot say that I read all these volumes, but I read enough of them to remember that when compared with Hadji Brown's description of that same expedition, they were as dry bones compared with a living spirit. His descriptions are equally vivid when he comes down to recent events, but if there is anything to be regretted about this book, it is that the history of a century ago, which really serves as the introductory part of the book, is too long in proportion to the sequel, or rather that the latter is too short, and this is all the more to be regretted because Hadji Brown, who had made many journeys, has now passed the bourne from which no traveller returns.

It seems strange that so gifted a writer as Hadji Brown should have lived so many years in this country without being more prominently known than he was, perhaps we may find some explanation of this in his own book. For instance in one of the most beautifully written passages in the book, in which he describes the effect on a man's life and character, of going down to the East and becoming a Moslem. This passage, which rises to a height of vivid and pathetic description rarely attained by any modern prose writer, would, if it stood alone, be sufficient to mark Hadji Brown as a writer of a very high order. His publishers do not say whether he has written any other book and my principal object in writing this is to ask through the medium of your columns, if some of your readers could not tell us something more about this interesting man.

As you have already reviewed the book and published several extracts from it, I will not say more except to express the hope that it may be widely read by the foreigner in the land. It may help to instil him with a little more of the milk of human kindness, in his intercourse with the natives of the country which receive him with such a large hospitality and often gets but little thanks in return.

I remain, Sir etc.etc.

BULLETIN DE LA BOURSE

(Aujourd'hui à midi)

L'arrêt de la hausse au Stock Exchange a produit chez nous un effet défavorable. Les acheteurs se sont retirés et il a fallu toute la réserve des vendeurs pour ne pas influencer de nouveau le marché. Grâce à cette prudente conduite les prix se sont en général maintenus; mais il y a de ce fait un peu de lourdeur et l'indécision d'aujourd'hui pourrait bien se transformer en baisse dans le cas où Londres continuerait à nous envoyer des cotes en dépression.

L'attention s'est partagée entre le Comptoir, la National Bank, les Ritz-Hotels, la Delta Land et la New-Egyptian, c'est-à-dire, si l'on en excepte la National Bank, entre les petites valeurs.

De 7 1/2 à 8 1/2 l'Agricole revient à 7 7/8 et la National Bank de 20 1/16 à 20 5/16, tandis que la Delta reprend de 12 3/8 à 12 1/2. Quant à l'obligation Crédit Foncier, l'ancienne rétrograde de 294 à 289 pendant que la nouvelle progresse de 253 1/2 à 254. Ces prix s'entendent ex tirage.

La privilégiée Bière d'Alexandrie regagne 5 francs à 125, tandis que la dividende en perd 5 à 80.

La Banque d'Athènes avance de 107 à 107 1/2, l'Urbaine de 3 à 3 1/16, et le Crédit Franco-Egyptien de 3 31/32 à 4 1/16.

En revanche, les Nungovich Hotels fléchissent de 16 3/4 à 16 1/2.

Parmi les titres de moindre importance, les Markets faiblement de 25 5/8 à 25 5/8, la Filature de 5 1/16 à 5 1/4, la Cassa di Sconto de 46 à 45 1/2, la Building Lands de 1 13/16 à 1 11/16, et la fondatrice Levico de 2 3/4 à 2 1/2. La Delta Land remonte, au contraire, de 1 11/32 à 1 3/8, les Sucreries de 28 à 33 francs, l'Ordinary Khedivial Mail de 20 à 20 5/8, la Levant de 1/2 à 1/2 3/8 et la fondatrice United de 3/4 à 1.

Sur le reste de la cote il n'y a pas de changements à signaler. Ceux que nous venons d'énumérer se partagent à peu près également entre la hausse et la baisse.

Il a été vendu ce matin aux enchères publiques 300 New Egyptian à 10 1/2 et 150 à 10 3/8, 5 obligations nouvelles Crédit Foncier à 290 francs et 1 part de fondatrice United Land à 1. Ces prix avantageux peuvent surprendre les non initiés, surtout celui de l'obligation Crédit Foncier inscrit à la cote officielle à 254 frs. Nous croyons devoir mentionner qu'il s'agit de prix absolument fictices, dus au caprice de quelques-uns. Il est bon de rappeler d'ailleurs, que les enchères n'ont guère de signification, puisque comme nous l'avons déjà eu l'occasion de le dire, les titres mis en vente sont généralement rachetés par l'agence même qui fait vendre. C'est une simple formalité vis-à-vis des clients dans le but de fixer officiellement leurs pertes.

Lundi prochain, 18 courant, aura lieu la vente aux enchères de 200 actions Industrial Building and Commercial Co. of Egypt. Une dizaine d'agences de courtage se sont retirées volontairement de l'association où on ont été rayés d'office pour insuffisance de moyens ou refus de régler leurs différences. Se sont retirés volontairement : U. Albini & Co., M. Hakim, G. Haffer, D. Klat, Raff. Is. Levy & Co., G. Maksud & Co., et B. H. Pervanoglu & fils. Ont été rayés : M. J. Abram, Betts & Co., J. Schouchana & Co.

NOTES ET CRITIQUES

Le Caire, Jeudi 14 Novembre.

Le taux de l'escompte libre à Londres est renseigné en hausse de 1/8 à 6 3/4 pour cent. Au Stock-Exchange, le Consolidé anglais a fléchi hier de 1/8 à 92 1/4. L'Unifiée est restée inchangée à 99. Le National Bank a haussé de 1/4 à 20 5/8. L'Agricole a été soutenue à 8 et la Delta à 12 1/2. La Delta Light a rétrogradé de 1/8 à 9 7/8.

A Paris, le Crédit Foncier Egyptien a gagné 1 franc à 683 et les Lots Turcs également 1 franc à 164. La Banque d'Athènes s'est maintenue à 107.

Nous recevons à la dernière heure d'un de nos amis, la lettre suivante qui est loin d'être dénuée d'intérêt :

"A la Bourse d'aujourd'hui une reprise assez accentuée s'est produite sur plusieurs titres qui avaient été maltraités ces derniers jours ; et fait curieux, les mêmes personnes qui étaient vendeurs depuis le commencement de cette semaine et voulaient à tout prix se défaire de ces titres, étaient aujourd'hui acheteurs.

"On est ainsi porté à croire qu'il s'agit d'une manœuvre provoquée dans l'espoir de pouvoir liquider prochainement quelques dossiers (peut-être actuellement déjà vides de titres) à des conditions très avantageuses pour les maisons qui emploient pareilles manœuvres.

"Il serait bon peut-être, de faire pressentir à qui de droit, qu'avant de faire ordonner la liquidation d'un dossier, les titres soient exhibés et déposés à l'établissement chargé de la vente forcée ; et qui sait même, si une expertise des livres des Maisons, poursuivie avec acharnement l'exécution de leurs clients, ne démontrerait pas que ces Maisons ne sont déjà plus en possession de tous les titres dont elles poursuivent la vente."

Ici, bien que l'on s'attendait à la continuation de la reprise commencée hier, on ne croyait pas à la hausse subite très sensible sur certains titres, qui s'est produite ce matin dans tous les compartiments, englobant la presque totalité des valeurs traitées. Le volume des transactions a fortement progressé, mais l'activité s'est plus particulièrement manifestée sur les valeurs locales.

Les bonnes dispositions du marché s'expliquent d'ailleurs très facilement. D'une part, c'est la reprise du groupe égyptien à Londres et la presque certitude que les événements d'Amérique ont marqué la période aiguë de la crise monétaire mondiale, de sorte que le règne des haussiers est à la veille de commencer. D'autre part, on finit par s'apercevoir que la situation locale n'est pas si mauvaise et que chaque petit incident a été grossi pour les besoins de la cause des baissiers.

Quoi qu'il en soit, encore quelques séances comme celle d'aujourd'hui et la confiance sera bien près d'être définitivement revenue.

Dans le compartiment des Banques, la National Bank haussée de 5/16 à 20 5/16 et l'Agricole de 1/16 à 7 15/16. La Cassa di Sconto gagnée 4 fcs à 48.

La Delta Light se relève à 9 11/16 alors que la Delta Sanieh bondit à 12 3/4 en gain de 3/8. Le Crédit Foncier Egyptien est en reprise à 290 ainsi que son obligation ancienne à 290 et la nouvelle à 254. La Bière d'Alexandrie est encore à 21. Les fondateurs Allocations sont plus soutenus à P.T. 48-49. La fondatrice Compagnie Immobilière baisse à 390. L'Entreprise and Development s'alourdit à 6 3/4-7 et sa part perd 1/2 à 9 1/2. Les Frigorifiques sont ramenés à 2 5/8-3/4.

Dans le groupe des Hôtels, les Egyptian Hotels (Baehler) haussent d'un seul coup à 5 3/16. Les National Hotels sont plus faibles à 2 9/16-5/8. Les Ritz accentuent leur consolidation à 0 3/8.

Parmi les petites valeurs, les Markets sont lourds à 25 5/8-5/8. Les Estates sont stationnaires à 0 7/16 alors que leur part gagne 1/8 à 2 13/16. L'Aboukir recule à 25/2 et les Egyptian Constructions à 0 1/4.

Carnet de l'actionnaire.

Le 10 Décembre prochain, à 11 heures a.m., aura lieu dans les bureaux de l'hôtel de la Cassa di Sconto, en séance publique, le tirage au sort pour une somme de Lst. 42,200 d'obligation de l'Emprunt Garanti 3%, remboursables le 1er Mars prochain avec le coupon.

SUDDEN ILLNESS OF PREMIER.

NOW OUT OF DANGER.

LONDON, November 14.

Sir H. Campbell-Bannerman, after a speech at Colton, was seized with a sudden illness in the House of Mr. Howell Davies M.P., where he was a guest. Doctors were in attendance for over an hour. The sharpness of the attack has ceased. It is understood to be heart trouble. The doctors have forbidden him to leave his bed to-day.

The bulletin issued this morning states that he was fatigued after his efforts and has slept little.

(Later), Sir H. Campbell-Bannerman is out of danger, but at one time the gravest alarm was felt and oxygen had to be administered. It is hoped that he will be able to return to London to-morrow. He had a refreshing sleep and was able to sit up. He is bright and cheerful and has telegraphed to his political agent in Stirling that his illness was solely due to overwork and that he was progressing excellently.

To-morrow's Cabinet meeting has been postponed. (Reuter)

MR. ROOSEVELT AND THE COTTON CONVENTION.

Mr. C. W. Macora, president of the International Federation of cotton spinners, has received the following letter from President Roosevelt with reference to the recent Convention of Cotton Spinners and Planters held at Atlanta, U.S.A.:

The White House, Washington, October 18, 1907.

My dear Sir,—I feel a very deep personal interest in the important matter which has brought to our shores so large and distinguished a body of cotton manufacturers from the principal nations of Europe. So far as I understand the plan and purposes of the International Federation of Cotton Spinners, of which you are the president, you aim to promote stable conditions in your great industry throughout the world, and your visit to the United States more especially aims to bring the world's cotton manufacturers into closer touch and sympathy with our own cotton producers, upon whom you depend for three-quarters of your supplies of raw material. It seems to me an elementary truth that if our cotton planters can learn more definitely and at first hand, as your trip proposes, the exact needs of the manufacturer in the matter of the preparation and shipment of the raw cotton, and can aim to conform thereto, the result will be quite as much to their benefit as to yours. You will find great changes in progress here, and an almost universal interest throughout the cotton belt in the matters that interest you, and I hope and believe that you will return to your homes not only pleased with our country, but encouraged to believe that your visit will bear immediate fruit.

It is a source of regret to me that engagements made long since rendered it impossible to receive your delegation during your sojourn in Washington and to say to you by word of mouth what I now take great pleasure in writing—Sincerely yours,

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

IRISH OPINION.

We extract the following from the "Irish Times":—

The significant reference made by Lord Cromer in his Guildhall speech to the aims and methods of Egyptian Nationalism has received a striking illustration in a great speech, which took the form of a manifesto, delivered by the recognised leader of the movement, Moustafa Kamel Pasha, in the Zissia Theatre, Alexandria, ten days ago. The speech occupied over an hour in delivery, and the audience numbered at least 6,000, representing, we are told, all classes and religions. Moustafa Pasha is the embodiment of the most virulent anti-British sentiment. He has been trained in a similar school to that which is annually turning out hundreds of windy agitators in India, and he is thoroughly versed in international politics, and in the use of that rapid rhetoric which passes current for patriotism in our modern school of politics. Though a Mussulman of the Mussulmans he adroitly avoids even the mere suspicion of desiring Mohammedan ascendancy, which is the real goal of Egyptian aspirations. He does this for two reasons: first, in order that the agitation may commend itself to Europe, particularly to that portion of Europe which is opposed to our occupation in Egypt; and, secondly, for the purpose of attracting the Coptic element, which, though comparatively insignificant as to numbers, contains some of the most able and progressive of the modern school in Egypt. His speech bristles with appeals, couched in the most inflammatory language, to the Egyptian people to organise themselves into one great National party with the avowed object of securing the evacuation of Egypt by the British, by agitation if possible, but if not by other means. Many will be tempted to ask whether the fact that such a meeting was permitted at all for its avowed object had been notified beforehand—was not in itself a sufficient proof that the tyranny which he so vehemently denounced existed only in his own fervid imagination. We venture to think that had Egypt the Government which he professes to desire, a meeting called for the purpose of holding up the supreme Government to ridicule and contempt would be speedily dispersed by methods as drastic and thorough as those which Mohammedans usually adopt. In no country in the world, governed by his co-religionists, would the use of language similar to that of Moustafa Pasha be tolerated for a moment. The same element which underlies the agitation in Bengal is apparent in that of Alexandria, namely, the belief that British toleration implies the consciousness of weakness. Until the British Government recognises this fact, and acts accordingly, we may expect that agitation will daily become more daring, until the Government is ultimately forced to adopt drastic measures where milder ones would have at first sufficed.

There is no more signal instance of national ingratitude than that afforded by the agitation now being conducted under British protection in Cairo and Alexandria. There has not been, either in ancient or modern times, a more striking example of the rapid advance of any country in material comforts, as well as in all those benefits which are the accompaniments of civilisation than that of Egypt since the British occupation in 1882. With brief intervals the Egyptian population had been subjected for centuries to the most cruel tyranny by their Turkish conquerors. The boundless natural resources of the country were insufficient to satisfy the grasping avarice of her Turkish oppressors, and multitudes periodically perished by famine and pestilence. The Egyptian people, or the various races and religions who inhabited the Nile Valley, were, perhaps, more lacking in all the elements which constitute material comfort than any other people on earth. We know how all this has been changed by the British occupation. Not only law, order, and liberty, but agricultural, commercial, and industrial prosperity, have advanced by leaps and bounds. Tens of thousands of acres hitherto useless have been rendered fertile by irrigation; and by a series of colossal engineering triumphs the Nile itself has been regulated as to its annual overflows, reducing to vanishing point the recurring danger of famine which haunted old Egypt. The population has rapidly increased, and the unemployed have almost disappeared, both in the two great cities and throughout the country. Finally, the Turk has had his claws pared, and his oppressive rule reduced to a nominal suzerainty, and better than all these, the periodical incursions of the wild Arabs of the desert are now a thing of the past. Had the British never occupied the country it is as certain as anything can well be that the Mahdi, or some Mahdi, would now be lordling it in Cairo, and that the experience which the wretched people of Khartoum had of his humane and beneficent rule would be that of Moustafa Kamel Pasha and his friends to-day if they would have been alive at all.

Such men as Moustafa Pasha are, or ought to be, clever enough to realise that the exigencies of international politics and our own national necessities, as well as the real welfare of the Egyptian people, demand that we should retain our hold of that country. There is no force in Egypt able to drive us out of it, and there never will be such, and Moustafa Pasha and his party are simply running their heads against a stone wall by exciting certain classes to involve themselves in a movement which must quickly result in their own undoing. In the true interests of Egypt as well as for our own protection, steps should be taken without delay to stop an agitation which, by appealing to Mussulman fanaticism—for that is the real motive-power behind this movement—is calculated to retard material progress, and to develop such turbulence and disorder as may involve a more drastic repression. The maintenance of a large native army, now that the Soudan danger no longer exists, is no longer necessary, and by reducing it, and thereby limiting expenditure, a larger purely British force might be maintained. Such of the Egyptian element as are influenced by sane and sober ideas might be entrusted more largely with a share in the civil administration of the country. But toleration of, and compromise with, treason must ultimately produce the most baneful results, as well in Egypt as in India. In the last resort we hold those countries by the sword, and to foster and nurture forces which would make it possible for the native populations to give us serious trouble would be as detrimental to ourselves as it would be fatal to their own material prosperity and rational liberty.

THE COTTON MARKET.

KRAUSELEY AND CUNNINGHAM'S WEEKLY REPORT

LIVERPOOL, November 7.

For Spot Egyptians there is no improvement in the demand; prices are somewhat irregular, and quotations are reduced  $\frac{1}{2}$  p. lb. There has not been much business in Futures this week, and the following are the latest values:—

Nov. 9.54	Feb. 9.45	May 9.44
Dec. 9.49	Mar. 9.45	June 9.45
Jan. 9.45	Apr. 9.44	July 9.46

American Futures. We have had another week of nervousness. On Monday the Market was surprised by the Bank of England rate being raised to 6% at an unusually early hour, and again to-day there is a still further advance to 7%.

The state of Monetary matters looks slightly more settled, but there is still great uneasiness, and likely to be for some time.

Smaller crop estimates and colder weather are reported, and the former is said to be holding his crop back hoping to obtain a higher price, but until the financial position in America is more settled we fear he may find it difficult.

The closing quotations are, delivery:—

November 5.78	Feb./Mar. 5.65	June/July 5.65
Nov./Dec. 5.64	Mar./Apr. 5.65	July/Aug. 5.64
Dec./Jan. 5.65	April/May 5.64
Jan./Feb. 5.65	May/June 5.64
